ACTIVITY #1 : DRESS ME UP

For this activity, I chose to dress up as Priam because his struggles show his unwavering perseverance, responsibility and, emotional strength even in the face of loss. Being the king of Troy, he has immense weight of leadership, much like myself juggling academic pressures and extracurricular challenges. One of the most interesting moments I found of Priam was that time he humbled himself before Achilles to reclaim his son's body, Hector. He did not only show his vulnerability, he showed immense courage and humility.
